SECURITY RISK MANAGEMENT SERVICES

MIRIS is a leading provider of security and risk management services. We offer global solutions in response to the range of threats to maritime and corporate clients operating in high risk areas, providing bespoke personal security services for individuals and their families, homes, yachts and private jets. Founded in 2011, MIRIS has an industry wide reputation for exemplary service delivery. We build strong professional relations with our clients based on a sound understanding of their needs, attention to detail and clear and responsive communications. Our services are delivered by professional trusted consultants who are supported by a dedicated operations management team.

MARITIME

MIRIS offers a comprehensive range of maritime security risk management services to meet the global requirements of ship and yacht owners, managers and charterers. With proven experience of operations in the Indian Ocean, South East Asia and off the coast of West Africa, MIRIS is well placed to provide risk management consultancy, operational security teams, passage planning and bespoke crew training programmes to meet your specific requirements when operating in high risk areas. Working closely with strategic partners in compliance with local laws and regulations, our operating models combine local expertise with our own proven experience of providing complex security services to achieve maximum protection and security. MIRIS also offers and has experience in planning security during vessel construction.

CORPORATE

MIRIS provide a range of executive protection services to ensure the security of your personnel, especially when travelling to unfamiliar countries, working on projects in hostile environments and attending events in challenging circumstances. We work closely with your organisation to scope and consider the most appropriate combination of security personnel, specialist equipment, infrastructure and operating procedures to meet threats and concerns to your employees, your business and your key assets. Our dedicated teams provide a discrete, low profile, vigilant service that ensures your personnel have the confidence to undertake their roles with as few restrictions as possible.

RESIDENTIAL SECURITY

Experience shows that professional criminals are not deterred by sophisticated alarm systems and that the most effective security measure is the presence of on-site security personnel. MIRIS provides discreet residential security teams to deter and respond when required to wide ranging threats to private residences. Our consultants are selected for their outstanding levels of professionalism and personal skills, creating an environment in which your family will feel comfortable and at ease, as well as safe and secure. All tasks are based on an in-depth evaluation of existing security measures, potential threats and vulnerabilities, in order to provide you with a comprehensive security plan which is bespoke to your personal and family requirements.

PRIVATE & FAMILY PROTECTION

MIRIS's experienced personal and family protection officers provide you with exclusive security services which allow you to enjoy your activities and time together. Discretion, integrity, honesty and above all, trust are paramount. Working closely with you and your family, our male and female officers seamlessly integrate into your routines, understanding your need for flexibility, allowing us to respond to changes of plans, new requirements and any particular concerns whilst providing you with the confidence that you are being supported by knowledgeable and reliable team members.

EVENTS

MIRIS's consultants deliver fully integrated event and site security solutions. Based on comprehensive risk assessments, our specialist personnel have wide experience of supporting private, corporate and public events, including business conferences, product launches, sporting events, private parties and celebrations. Our consultants provide a balanced overt and discrete security presence, backed by responsive support, command and control teams, as a part of a layered risk management approach.

CYBER SECURITY

The nature of cyber-attacks has evolved to present a significant threat to businesses and personal security worldwide. Systems are increasingly targeted by hacking and the introduction of malware, disrupting your day to day business and presenting risks to the confidentiality of your information. MIRIS can assist you in deterring cyber attacks by reviewing your current risk and immediate exposure, assessing potential sources of threats and vulnerabilities, and providing risk mitigation strategies. Your interests will be safe guarded through the implementation of workable technology systems and business practices capable of detecting potential cyber-attacks at the earliest opportunity.

SURVEILLANCE

MIRIS surveillance consultants will discuss your requirements and objectives, scope the potential for effective surveillance and counter-surveillance, and will draft a bespoke surveillance plan to identify threats to your business and employees. Our specialists make full use of modern covert surveillance techniques and equipment. MIRIS provides clients with timely briefings and reports, accompanied by relevant video surveillance footage, photographs and supporting documents. MIRIS's counter-surveillance capability extends to conducting surveillance operations to identify potential threats to organisations and individuals.
